

Publications >

Technical Program Expanded Abstracts

SEG Digital Library

SEG Research Collection

GEOPHYSICS
THE LEADING EDGE

Encyclopedic Dictionary
SEG Book Mart

EESG Research Collection

JEEG
SAGEEP

Browse

Available Volumes

SEG Publication Info

Subscriptions
Purchase Print
Purchase DVD
Submissions
SEG Meetings
Reprints
Permissions
Notices

Resources

Digital Cumulative Index
LookUpstream

Back to Publications

SEG Expanded Abstracts / Volume 28 / MIN P1 Case Histories and Technology

The peculiarities of geophysical methods in exploration for chrome deposits

You are not logged in. Log in

SEG Expanded Abstracts 28, 1310 (2009);
doi:10.1190/1.3255091

Adjust text size:

PREV NEXT

Login to My SEG

Login Now

Register

ABSTRACT | REFERENCES (7)

Alfred Irfan Frasher

A half a century history of the application of geophysical methods in exploration of chrome ores deposits in Albania is presented in the paper. There are analyzed the best results and problems, which have solved the Albanian geophysicists, in the framework of integrated multi-disciplinary geological search of for chromite deposits. ©2009 Society of Exploration Geophysicists

Permalink: <http://dx.doi.org/10.1190/1.3255091>

KEYWORDS

Europe, exploration, gravity, induced polarization, magnetization

PUBLICATION DATA

ISSN:

1052-3812 (print)

Publisher:

SEG

Buy This PDF \(US\$24\)

Connotea

CiteULike

del.icio.us

BibSonomy

-  DOWNLOAD CITATION
-  MySCITATION
-  EMAIL ABSTRACT
-  ERRATUM ALERT
-  RESEARCH TOOLKIT
-  BLOG THIS ARTICLE
-  PRINTER FRIENDLY

